Overseer of the Poor.

REPORT OF LIBRARY TRUSTEES.

Nineteen years ago the coming month of April the initiatory steps toward the erection of the present library building were taken. The structure was completed and the dedication and presentation to the town, by the donor, Josiah Carpenter, Esq., of Manchester, was made a special feature of the Old Home Day celebration of August, 1901.

It was opened to the public on the twelfth day of the following October. An active interest on the part of the general public in its privileges was immediately manifest. With the passing years there has ever been an increasing interest as shown in the record of circulation.

The withdrawal of books the first year was slightly above ten thousand. For the year ending December 31, 1919, the circulation was 22,554. The record also shows that 1,281 magazines were loaned. It is very doubtful if such a record would be equalled in any town in the state with a far larger population than Pittsfield. Such a condition is eminently gratifying to the official management and to all friends of the institution.

Books.

During the past year 575 books have been accessioned. Of these 402 were added by purchase and the others by gifts. The largest donation, comprising 123 volumes, was from the library of the late Captain Stanton K. Berry who paid the supreme sacrifice for civilization upon the battlefields of France. Captain Berry, in his boyhood days, while passing the summer vacation season at the Berry homestead on the mountain, was a great patron of the library and his interest in the institution prompted the gift.

Forty volumes were donated by A. W. Young of Watertown.

Among others who have contributed are Mrs. M. H.

Wheeler, Dorothy Adams, H. P. Joy, Victor Tracy, and Mrs. Georgia B. Carpenter.

The thanks of the trustees are extended for such kindly interest. During the past ten years some over 5,000 volumes have been added and there are approximately 9,000 upon the shelves.

FINANCES.

The treasurer's report shows that the receipts for 1919 were slightly above any previous year, but fell short of what is actually needed if the standard of efficiency is to be kept up in all departments. This is owing to the great advance in the price of books, fuel and supplies of all kinds. Fuel and supplies have doubled in cost. Books have advanced in cost to the extent that one hundred dollars will not purchase more than seventy or seventy-five dollars would two or three years ago. Prices of magazines have increased in the same ratio.

The appropriation of $1,200 by the town was supplemented by a gift of three hundred dollars by Mrs. Georgia B. Carpenter of Manchester who again in this way manifested her lively interest in the institution. Without that gift there could not have been so many books purchased and the shortage would have been greatly felt in other directions.

The official management extend their thanks for the gift and it is greatly appreciated by patrons of the library.

If the efficiency and privileges of the institution are to be kept up to the desired standard it is plainly apparent a larger appropriation ought to be made by the town.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board of Pittsfield:

I submit herein my fifth annual report as superintendent of schools.

REPAIRS.

A sewer was laid from the Memorial building directly to the river, removing disagreeable conditions that have existed in this building. At South Pittsfield extensive repairs, some alterations and construction work was done, viz.: out-houses removed from shed and placed at rear of schoolhouse on fly-tight cement vaults, one room of school building partitioned off for manual training, the entries remodeled, adjustable seats installed, hard wood floor laid, interior of building painted and additional windows on left of pupils installed to meet the requirements of lighting. To fully meet the requirements of a model schoolroom there is need of ventilating flues, slate or composite blackboards and a jacketed stove. Under orders of the State Board of Education, a survey of all one- and two-room buildings in the district has been made, giving data wherein the schoolhouses meet and do not meet the state requirements. Since the standard school, according to the new state law, must be "In a suitable and sanitary building . . . equipped with approved furniture, books, maps and other necessary appliances," it is highly essential that the district adopt a constructive plan to put all our schoolhouses in suitable condition.

At Jenness Pond, a new metal ceiling has been installed. One half of the expense was paid by the citizens of the district. I recommend that a suitable appropriation be made to continue this reconstruction work, to place, at least, one building in model condition each year until the work is completed.

GRADUATION.

On June 25, the Pittsfield High School gave to the world, as its finished product, a class of twelve, six young men and six young ladies, all inspired with a broader horizon of duty and a clearer vision of life. The essays and orations showed thorough preparation, extensive research and were on interesting topics of today. Every member of the class took part, expressing their thoughts in a manner highly pleasing to an appreciative audience and reflecting much credit on Head Master Aldrich and his assistants. The graduates were: David T. Clough, Doris F. Devino, Lydia C. Glines, Leland S. Herrick, Osmond Jackson, Helen M. Osgood, Lucy M. Osgood, Malcolm H. Moses, Melvin D. Sanborn, Julia F. Smith, Robert S. Towle, Annie E. Wilson.

HIGH SCHOOL.

Head Master D. G. Aldrich reports as follows:

"The change in the curricula of the school that took place at the beginning of the fall term has proven a great success from both the educational and disciplinary standpoint. Under the new curriculum more prepared work is demanded in English, Modern Languages and Science, which gives a broader foundation for those entering college.

"The question that confronted our High School curricula is 'Does it serve its purpose?' The greatest problem of this or any age is in the training of the boys and girls from the age of about thirteen to nineteen so that the results shall equal the aim of the school. In order to illustrate my point more clearly, permit me, therefore, briefly to exemplify by using statistics given in 'The Vocational Summary.'

"School No. 1 was located in an old aristocratic community where all the boys and girls finished high school and went to college. The former took up law, medicine, theology, or pedagogy. The girls nearly all became teachers or married professional men. The course of study in this school was Latin, Algebra, English, History and a little Science. The object was to prepare pupils to enter college. The pupils having descended from a long line of educated ancestors, few ever failed to pass. Ninety-eight per cent of its graduates went to college. This school served its purpose and accomplished its aim.

"School No. 2 was located in a rural community, where all of its people were farmers. About 1 per cent of its graduates went on to college or became public-school teachers. The other 99 per cent went back to the home and to the farm to plow and hoe with Latin verbs and algebraic equations.

"The curriculum of this school was the same as that of No. 1. Its object was to prepare pupils for college also. It utterly failed, for only 1 per cent actually went to college while the other 99 per cent failed to make use of their preparation.

"School No. 3 was located in the West. Here the patrons were farmers, mechanics, carpenters, painters, lumbermen, cattlemen and poultrymen. There were 100 boys and girls in the school. It was divided into two equal sections. In the morning section No. 1 studied the literary subjects of the curriculum while section No. 2 worked on the farm, in shop, sewing room, etc. At noon these sections were interchanged, and those pupils who did literary work in the morning worked in the industries in the afternoon. Likewise, those who worked in the industries in the morning were doing literary work in the afternoon.

"The aim of this institution was to prepare pupils for life. Ninety per cent of its graduates go out into the world to do the kind of work that their school training has shown them they were fitted for.

"Our school is a combination of Nos. 1 and 3, having three courses of study, all of which prepare for advanced work either at college or normal school as well as for immediate work. During the past three years our graduates have taken up the following:

Class.	College.	Normal School.	Business College.	Teaching.	Farm- ing.	Miscel- laneous.
1917.....	15%	8%	8%	15%		54%
1918.....	42%	8%	17%	17%		16%
1919.....	25%	8%	8%		8%	51%

"This record shows that during the four years in which agriculture was taught only .02 per cent took up farming. This fact seemed self evident that a change in the high school curricula was needed.

"It is the aim of the present curricula to prepare the young men and women not only for college but to meet the obligations of citizenship and the needs of the time. The school is primarily interested in giving breadth and thoroughness to the training afforded, rather than in offering highly specialized preparation for any particular field, the detail of which can be learned more readily and advantageously at college or in later experience.

"The fall enrollment was larger than previous. All except one of the upper classes returned. The entering class was exceptionally small, having only eighteen compared to twenty-eight of the year before.

"The systemization of the school work is far in advance of what it was a year ago, caused by a thorough planning of the full year's work during the vacation and a careful study by all teachers of the State Program. The new program called for many changes over previous years. These have been met in all departments and the amount of work accomplished is more than the average."

Miss Williams reports as follows for the English Department:

"The work of the English Department has proceeded along the lines followed last year. The most noteworthy change has been the introduction of a fourth year's work. We believe that the student needs to pursue the study of English throughout his entire high school course, for none too much time is thus afforded for forming and establishing good reading habits and perfecting the art of self-expression through writing and speech."

Miss Kempton reports as follows for the Domestic Arts Department:

"At the beginning of the fall term 15 Freshman and Sophomore girls reported to me for Cookery and 14 Junior and Senior girls for Nursing and Physiology.

"The Domestic Arts Course is aimed to be of direct help in preparing the girls for the vocation of home-making. As 90 out of 100 women are engaged in this vocation as their life work, it is essential that we take up such a training in our schools.

"The Freshman and Sophomore girls devoted the first month of school entirely to canning and preserving while the fresh products were available. The results at the end of the month were: 69 quarts of vegetables, $31\frac{1}{2}$ quarts of fruits, $20\frac{1}{2}$ glasses of jelly, and 15 quarts of pickles. The variety was larger than the figures indicate and each girl took home a good supply of canned goods for winter store.

"With double periods each day for cooking, the work of one year was covered the first half of the year so that sewing could take its place the last half. The actual dishes made cover a wide range and especially include those of practical value. The ones selected for first year of cookery started with the simple foods such as cream soups, baking powder biscuits, muffins, scalloped dishes, and the like and proceeded to the more difficult as desserts, cakes, doughnuts, pies, croquettes, and simple meats. The cost of each recipe was worked out with present-day prices so that economic meal planning could be carefully arranged at any time. The practice of preparing and serving meals was brought about through the eleven meals served to the school board and citizens. Another feature carried out this year during the cold weather was the serving of hot cocoa, soups, and stews through the noon hour to students who brought cold lunches. Aside from the cooking the girls learned the special care of glassware, china, silverware, agate, aluminum, etc., and care of linens, refrigerators, and sinks.

"The projects taken up in the sewing are those to guide and encourage the girls in their personal sewing and also that of the household. The first year of sewing consists of personal underwear, personal outside clothing, bedding, and embroidery. Patching and darning as well as the study of designing and textiles will be taken up this year. The sewing makes use of the commercial patterns and sewing machine. We are planning to have a sewing exhibition in June.

"The course in Nursing and Physiology is designed to prepare the home-maker for intelligently meeting the emergencies which are likely to arise in the home, to care for the sick and convalescent, and to provide living conditions such that good health may be promoted.

"The Junior and Senior girls took up the Physiology as a basis for the work of the year. The Physiology consists mainly of personal hygiene, circulation, respiration, sense organs, and nervous system. As a continuation of the Physiology came the First Aid which takes up bleeding, bandaging, fractures, etc. The Home Nursing includes the care of sick room and patient, contagion, duties of a nurse, observation of symptoms, etc. Child care was taken up, dealing with the pre-school age and the conditions benefiting growth and development, also tuberculosis and its dangers and care. Feeding of the sick is planned to meet the requirements of the nutrition."

Miss Sweet reports as follows for the Music:

"While the results of the work in music in the High School are not yet what we hoped they would be, nor what we expect them to be, nevertheless they are encouraging.

"Until music is placed upon the same basis with other subjects and credit given for the work, as it now is in all elementary schools, we will not be able to accomplish what we otherwise could in High School.

"Another fact which seriously handicaps our work is that nearly one third of the class are monotones—mainly because they have come from rural schools where they have never had music, or, as in the case of a few who were not given individual attention in the first and second grades of our own schools.

"In spite of these hindrances, we have reason to be encouraged. We are spending two periods a week on the work this year,—there is marked improvement in the part-singing,—and while the Boys' Glee Club is not yet a realization, material is fast developing for it."

MANUAL TRAINING.

This department has continued throughout the year under the able management and instruction of Howell Potter. Mr. Potter has maintained wholesome deportment and has striven to inculcate in his boys a love for neat, attractive and well-finished products and a manly attitude to their companions, teachers and elders.

The practical results of this department may be judged from the following list of articles made: 4 hall trees, 6 bath room cabinets, 32 broom holders, 11 bread and cake boards, 25 coat hangers, 18 match holders, 2 tool chests, 1 double-runner sled, 4 taborets, 1 cement post mould, 4 magazine racks, 2 waste baskets, 1 farm cupboard, 10 plant stands, 18 pin trays, 25 agricultural project signs, 4 school signs, 2 tables, 8 tool boxes, 4 ironing boards, 6 sleeve boards, 8 sewing cabinets, 7 letter racks, 4 book cases, 2 plate racks, 9 milking stools, 10 knife boxes, 4 box traps, 2 umbrella racks, 24 hammer handles, 2 fireless cookers, 4 foot rests, 14 picture frames, 2 wood boxes, 1 bulletin case, 4 benches for Drake field.

Many school and home repairs were done. Various kinds of staining and finish were taught; lectures on paint and painting given.

In the blacksmithing department studies in the manufacture and working of iron were pursued. Welding and tempering by modern practices were taught.

The projects made were: 8 chains, 5 feet long with hook and ring, 25 hooks of various kinds for farm use, 15 stove pokers, 20 cold chisels, 25 punches, 12 farm hasps and staples.

Ironing double runner sleds, school repairs and a short course in soldering.

SEWING.

Barbara D. Sawyer, principal of Memorial School, reports as follows:

"The Sewing in the Memorial Building, Grades 7 and 8, for the spring term of 1919, was a continuation of the knitting, crocheting, hemstitching, and embroidering already commenced. Some plain sewing was done with the use of patterns, one girl making a kimono and another a dress.

"During the fall term and half of the winter term of this school year, all the girls have darned stockings and made penwipers. Two of the girls made rompers for a child; one girl is making a middy suit from used goods; another is making a princess slip. Others are making boudoir caps, baby's socks, sweaters, and crocheted yokes. Many have crocketed lace, insertion, yokes, edging for handkerchiefs, caps, mats, and tidies. The knitting has been sweaters, caps, a scarf, and face cloth. A number have made tatting, while others have embroidered guest towels and sofa pillows. A few other things already made are hemmed dish towels and napkins, a baby's blanket, several princess slips, shampoo jacket, kitchen aprons, flannel petticoat, and patch work."

Mrs. Georgia Davis reports for sixth and seventh grades as follows:

"During the spring term sewing was conducted along much the same lines as last year. Much Red Cross work was done, mostly for the Convalescent Hospitals.

"Since September, a definitely planned course to give a practical training in the art of sewing has been followed. The children have learned a variety of stitches while making useful articles. The course includes such projects as, princess slips, pillow slips, petticoats, bloomers, night-dresses, kimonos, a variety of aprons, knitting, crocheting, embroidery, hemstitching, and for some of the larger girls simple dresses and middy blouses. Machine work is used when practical and much work has been done outside the class room. This has been through the helpful co-operation of the parents. Each child will complete six or seven articles by the end of the school year, according to age and grade."

For the fifth grade, Mrs. Hawley reports:

That each girl is required to make a work bag with initials embroidered on it, a tea apron, a work apron and a boudoir cap.

THRIFT STAMP CLUBS.

Dora E. Page, principal of Grammar building, reports the following clubs:

American Eagle Club, Grade I and II, bought 272
thrift stamps, value	$68.00
American Flag Club, Grade III, bought 355 thrift
stamps, value	88.75
Liberty Club, Grade IV, bought 163 thrift stamps,
value	40.75
War Helpers Club, Grade V, bought 97 thrift
stamps, value	24.75
Total of Grammar School Clubs, 887 thrift stamps,
value	$221.75

MUSIC.

Miss Harriet Sweet reports as follows on the music in the grades:

"The results of our work in music throughout the grades are most gratifying—in some instances being far beyond our anticipations.

"We are now commencing our fourth year with the 'Progressive Series.' September of each year has found each class starting in advance of the class of the year before. Every grade is doing at least the required work for the month and there are grades doing April work at the present time. It is our aim to gradually advance each class so that eventually we will be able to complete another year's work in the grades.

"One important feature of the 'Progressive Series' is the method of treating monotones in the first and second grades (it is almost impossible to correct this fault after the second grade) and in this connection it may be interesting to note the following:

Number of monotones		Sept. 1	Feb. 1
Grade I		6	1
II	(4 in 1918)	1 (due to deafness)	1
III	(6 in 1917)	0	0
IV		1 (entered in 3d)	1

"The number is more marked in the 6th, 7th, and 8th grades, there being from two to four in each grade.

"Gladstone said he firmly believed the so-called unmusical people are simply the result of early neglect. If this be true, all we need to do is to catch the child early enough in life and begin his training.

"Owing to the enthusiasm and interest with which the regular work is done, both by teachers and pupils, it is possible for us to do a little each month with our victrolas along the line of cultivating the musical sense and appreciation of the children and their knowledge of musical instruments as well as giving them every possible opportunity of hearing the best compositions of all kinds."

DRAWING.

The curricula of our grades from first to eighth inclusive have been greatly enriched by the introduction of drawing. Mr. Arthur Paige, a native citizen of our town, has taken up the work with that interest and vision of its possibilities that warrants success at the beginning.

Mr. Paige reports on the work as follows:

"Drawing was introduced into the grades at the beginning of the fall term. Great enthusiasm and interest has been shown by both teachers and pupils and I think progress has been very satisfactory. High cost and scarcity of materials handicap this study as well as others so that we are obliged to omit some of its desirable branches.

"In the lower grades much is made of imaginative and illustrative drawing as a natural means of expression and of recording impressions. Paper cutting and paper construction form a part of the work in these grades and develop dexterity.

"In the upper grades more is made of object drawing, teaching the pupil to see correctly and judge proportions. It also increases the powers of observation.

"Commencing with the fifth grade some mechanical drawing is being done. This correlates nicely with manual training as it teaches the pupil how to plan on paper the project chosen for construction.

"In color study we aim to give some idea of color theory and develop good taste in the use of color as applied to every day life.

"The Upper City and South Pittsfield schools are receiving as nearly as possible the same training as the village schools and progress in them is fully as satisfactory.

"In closing this report perhaps a few quotations from different sources regarding the purpose and value of drawing in the schools will not be amiss.

"This from an unknown writer:

"The new study of drawing is an intellectual study; the thought, ingenuity, and invention of the scholar in the line of art as supplied to industrial pursuits. The influence of this branch is manifold; it especially develops: (1) observation; (2) forethought; (3) painstaking; (4) taste, imagination; (5) memory of forms; (6) ease and precision in the movements of the hand. As drawing is opposed to carelessness, haste, bad forms, and clumsy execution, it is a valuable art in teaching writing."

"A manufacturer of wide experience says:

"When by a sketch the manufacturer or mechanic can place before himself and others many ways of doing a thing, he at once makes comparisons, and immediately chooses what he deems the best, the fittest, or the most beautiful. He hits the marks after such a comparison, because with his sketches he has tried many schemes and compared them.'

"Sargent gives the following as some of the advantages resulting in later life of this study:

"Ability to sketch with pencil or brush so as to show how an object appears or how it is constructed, or to illustrate one's ideas or record one's observations.

"An appreciation of what is in good taste aesthetically, especially as regards the things which constitute one's immediate environment, and sufficient knowledge of such matters to justify one's taste.

"Some acquaintance with excellent examples of art in architecture, painting, sculpture, and the crafts, and a discriminating capacity for enjoyment of beauty of form and color in nature and art.'"

EVENING SCHOOL.

Our Evening School opened Dec. 10, and specialized in three departments, viz., (1) Americanization; (2) Sewing and Cooking; (3) Wood Working. Head Master Aldrich took charge of the school and taught the Americanization class, Miss Kempton the Sewing and Cooking and Mr. Potter the Manual Training class. Three registered in the Americanization, six in the Domestic Arts and eight in the Manual Training. While those who are attending are taking a decided interest in their work yet we feel that many more should take advantage of the opportunities offered in this school.

DRAKE ATHLETIC FIELD.

The Drake Athletic Field has been open for school athletics and community sports throughout the season of 1919.

The care of the grounds was under the direction of Frank D. Osgood who maintained his former reputation for faithful work. During July and August, Edward Harriman directed and drilled the boys of the town in baseball, basketball, tennis and other athletic activities.

We cannot appreciate too highly the opportunities here offered for the development of a manly spirit, of sound physique of body and true American character. With the exception of Mr. Harriman's salary, the entire cost of maintaining the grounds has been paid by Mrs. Georgia Carpenter to whom, in behalf of the people of Pittsfield, we extend our thanks and appreciation.

TEACHER SHORTAGE.

It seems almost needless for me to take time and space to impress on you the fact that the greatest crisis to American democracy is the teacher problem, when every paper and magazine is teeming with data confirming this statement.

The Bulletin of the National Education Association for November states:

"Over 100,000 positions in the public schools to-day are vacant or filled by teachers who cannot pass the minimum tests for teachers' certificates. Strong teachers are leaving the profession because of inadequate pay. Positions are being filled by immature and untrained teachers."

On December 6, Governor Runyon of New Jersey stated among other things in a proclamation to his people: "If our children are to be taught by incompetent teachers, or are not to be taught at all, the end of American democracy, as we know it, is in sight."

State superintendent of Maine, Mr. Thomas, stated on Dec. 28, "That 80 schools of Maine were closed because of teacher shortage, and that the number will soon be greatly augmented. If present emergencies are not met at the coming town meetings, there will be 500 schools closed next autumn. Out of 650,000 teachers in the United States, 143,000 left the profession last year."

Gen. Frank S. Streeter stated on Dec. 31, in regard to the problem in New Hampshire: "Fifty of our schools are closed because of a lack of teachers, and probably eighty or more will be closed within a few weeks. From statistical experience we may expect there will be withdrawals of between 400 and 450 teachers at the end of the present year. Our two normal schools will graduate less than 100."

To this situation there is but one answer and that is our teachers are underpaid in every town and state of our nation.

Locally our grade teachers since 1914 have been increased in salary about 39 per cent. According to latest statistics living expenses have advanced 86 per cent, wages in the ordinary pursuits of life 112 per cent. Under these circumstances, do you wonder that we as a nation face the greatest crisis of our national history? That Bolshevism is gaining a foothold on American soil?

It is no time to preach financial retrenchment in educational matters. To do so would express a flavor of unpatriotic devotion and a low sense of loyal duty to public welfare. Do you realize that of the boys who stopped and turned back the hordes of autocratic vandals at Chateau Thierry over 60 per cent were college graduates, the highest products of the free school system of America? That the chief assets that won the war were brains? That the same aspirations for autocratic power or no government at all are in the world today? That there is a lull in the struggle? That we are training the generation in our schools today that may be called to finish the fight?

Indeed we should rejoice in the privilege of paying an increase in taxation, when we realize that had the outcome of the struggle been otherwise, our property and homes would have been confiscated, our sons and daughters torn from our embrace, and, perhaps, we, ourselves, led out to face a firing squad.

Our teachers have been exceedingly loyal to the interests of our town. They have remained in their posts of duty, rejecting calls at a more lucrative salary from other towns and states, but, from data in my possession, I know some are having a hard time to make their salary measure up to the cost of living. Therefore, I recommend that a suitable deficit appropriation be made to increase their pay for the remainder of the year, also I trust that the citizens of Pittsfield will feel it their patriotic duty to make as large and liberal appropriations for the year beginning September 1 as is comparable to and compatible with the vital interests of free government.

MEDICAL INSPECTION.

Under the instructions of the State Board of Education to make suitable provision for the care of the health and physical welfare of all pupils the Pittsfield School Board designated Dr. Roscoe Hill as school physician.

Dr. Hill assisted by our district nurse, Miss LaFontaine, conducted a thorough examination of our pupils whose report follows:

REPORT OF SCHOOL PHYSICIAN.

Number pupils examined,		355
Defective vision,	31
Defective hearing,	7
Anaemia,	6
Heart disease,	36

Respectfully submitted,

ROSCOE HILL, M. D.

IN GENERAL.

Since September our schools have taken on an increased motivation in their work. On my visits, I have noted a decided improvement in discipline, punctuality, regularity of attendance and educational advancement. The result of our medical inspection and follow up work of our district nurse has expressed itself in many cases in a cleaner pupil, a keener mind, a better nourished body and a more attentive scholar.

Our course of study in the seventh and eighth grades has been enriched by the introduction of general science. In our rural schools we have been particularly fortunate in having Prof. Watson at Upper City and Miss O'Donoghue at South Pittsfield. Both have model rural schools that in organization compare favorably with any rural schools in the state. In both schools the noon lunch has been installed with marked success.

In conclusion, I wish to express my appreciation of the loyal support accorded me by the corps of teachers and to thank the parents, citizens and members of the board who have given liberally of their time and energy for the good of the school system.

Respectfully submitted,

FREDERICK T. JOHNSON,

Superintendent of Schools.
